Waterfalls in the Allegheny National Forest

Bent Run Waterfall - Located along Rt. 59, in the Allegheny National Forest access is from a small parking lot at a bend in the road, across from the eastern edge of the Kinzua Dam parking lot. The waterfall flows especially well during heavy rains and spring run-off, but the flow can dwindle down to a trickle quite often. Bent Run is a short hike, full of nooks and crannies and easy climbing.

Hector Run Falls - A strange geologic formation surrounds this waterfall, with a height of only around 22 feet, it is set amidst a collection of large boulders. This waterfall plummets from a rectangular shaped rock face and has a lost world type of feel. When the water levels are high, the water flows off two different faces, when low the flow goes down to a trickle. Parking for the falls is located about 2 miles down a dirt road, which starts in the town of Ludlow on Route 6 in McKean County. Falls location: 41.6853 -78.975067

Fishing
The Allegheny National Forest offers the angler a variety of fishing opportunities from small native brook trout to trophy fishing for muskie, pike and walleye in the Allegheny Reservoir. The Allegheny Reservoir, a 12,000-acre impoundment on the Allegheny River, is the largest reservoir on the Forest.

Fly fishing: The forest abounds with hundreds of miles of stream trout fishing from the large tailwater fishery at the base of the Kinzua Dam to the tiny brook trout streams on the Allegheny Plateau. Kinzua Creek is a local favorite. Grey fox, march brown, green drakes and native brown trout are found in these waters.

Canoeing and Kayaking
The Allegheny National Forest provides camping and launching facilities in Pennsylvania. In New York the Seneca Nation of Indians (716-945-1790), Cattaraugus County (716-354-2615), and Allegany State Park (716-354-9121) offer similar facilities.

The southern-most tips of the Red Bridge arm and Sugar Bay of the Allegheny Reservoir provide an excellent place for canoeing and kayaking. Access to these areas can be gained by using the Kiasutha Boat Launch.

Red Lines Indicate Stocked Trout Waters
Bigfoot in McKean County

Myth or Fact? Can Bigfoot really be living here?

Many locals believe Bigfoot is here. Animal Planet filmed in the region and recorded positive sightings, and a game camera mounted in a tree by Rick Jacobs in a remote area of the ANF raises questions. Others just want to have fun searching for signs of BigFoot.

In the meantime, have your photo taken beside a statue of Bigfoot at Rock City Park, or at Bell’s Market in Kane, while shopping for Bigfoot Sausage, and of course you can always purchase a bottle of Bigfoot Wine at Allegheny Cellars in Sheffield!

Kinzua Bridge State Park ......................................................... 814-965-2646
Hidden…deep within the forest of Northwestern Pennsylvania, an engineering masterpiece, the Kinzua Viaduct once soared 301 feet high and 2,053 feet across, and was at one time the highest and longest railroad bridge in the world.

In 1882, General Thomas Kane, a Philadelphia lawyer, decorated Civil War veteran, and president of the New York, Lake Erie and Western Coal Company, had rich coal deposits south of the Kinzua Valley. But since his customers were to the north, Kane needed to cross that valley. Kane needed a bridge.

Paris-born Octave Chanute, chief engineer for the Erie Railroad, rose to the challenge. The man who would later help the Wright brothers fly had a bold solution…a bridge unlike any the world had seen.

Once billed as the “Eighth Wonder of the World” this masterpiece was hit by a tornado in 2003 and laid in partial ruins until September 15, 2011 when the grand opening of the Kinzua Sky Walk brought life back into the Kinzua Bridge State Park.

The Kinzua Sky Walk is a pedestrian walkway built on six of the historic viaduct towers which remained following the tornado. Extending over 600 feet out into the gorge, the skywalk features an octagon-shaped overlook at the end with a partial glass floor which allows visitors to peer down below. Visitors can once again experience the thrill of “Walking the Tracks Across the Sky” as they enjoy stunning views spanning miles across the landscape.

History of the Bridge
Chief Engineer Octave Chanute contracted the Pennsylvania firm of Clarke, Reeves & Company to design and fabricate the bridge. Adolphus Bonzano designed a wrought iron bridge using his “Phoenix Column,” an engineering breakthrough that enabled tall structures to resist vibration and buckling.

The bridge was pre-fabricated in Phoenixville, near Philadelphia, and transported to the site for erection. Once the sandstone foundation piers were in place, 125 men completed the construction in just 94 days.

Three and one-half million pounds of iron and $275,000 later, the first steam-powered train rolled across delivering General Kane’s coal to market. The Viaduct was an immediate sensation. It stood 24 feet higher than the Brooklyn Bridge and became an instant tourist attraction. Walking out on the bridge was the next best thing to flying.

But by 1900, the locomotives and railroad cars hauling coal and timber across the Viaduct had become larger and heavier. A stronger steel bridge was required.

Using 6.7 million pounds of steel held together by 895,000 rivets, workers erected a new bridge to replace the original. Two timber travelers worked toward the center, demolishing the old iron towers one at a time as the new steel ones were hoisted into place. A crew of 100 to 150 men, working 11-hour days, finished construction in just four months.

In July 2003, engineers and skilled bridge builders were hard at work on a $12 million repair project to reinforce the aging structure. The workers decided to call it a day when the sky went black and the winds rushed in. A tornado tore through the forest heading straight for the Viaduct. Hundreds of trees were ripped from their roots and 11 of the bridges 20 towers were lifted, twisted and thrown onto the valley floor.

Engineers later confirmed that winds attacked from three directions. The original 1882 anchor bolts and collar coupling assemblies, which mated the old bolts to the later 1900 construction, had failed.

Within 30 seconds, nature had brought the mighty span to its knees.

Overlooks and Trails
The Kinzua Sky Walk provides a stunning overlook to view the natural beauty of the Kinzua Gorge. Chances to view wildlife and a wide variety of birds are plentiful. Prime fall foliage season is normally the last two weeks of September and the first two weeks of October. New trails lead visitors to an overlook to view the understructure of the original viaduct and down into the bottom of the gorge to view the Twisted massive steel towers that fell during the tornado.
